Second Interrogation (16 Jan 1951)

P The second interrogation was aimed at a more specific development of the "new" and previously obtained information. The general subjects still remained the same with some amplification of details regarding previous activities, locations, individuals and other matters of both pertinent and extraneous. However, the greater part of this interrogation was given to obtaining accurate, specific and detailed information concerning the various instruments involved, their use, manufacture, description, etc.